About Andy Biggs's Tax Record

Q: Does Andy Biggs want to put a 23% sales tax on Arizonans?

A: NO. Andy Biggs is campaigning on gradually eliminating Arizona's state income tax and replacing that revenue by rooting out fraud and waste in state programs, attracting more businesses and encouraging economic growth, and better utilization of our natural resources like land and mining to bring in more revenue.

Q: Why does Katie Hobbs's ad say Andy Biggs wants a 23% sales tax?

A: She is misleading voters to distract from her own record of trying to raise over $1 BILLION in new taxes through sales tax hikes and doubling the state gas tax. Andy Biggs has NEVER voted for a tax increase and will never raise taxes on Arizonans.

Q: Where is the 23% tax coming from?

A: The FairTax plan, which is a piece of federal legislation, would eliminate the federal income tax, estate tax, payroll taxes, and the IRS, and move Americans to a much simpler tax code. It eliminates loopholes exploited by billionaires to make sure they pay their fair share and provides a generous prebate to help lower-income Americans. This is a federal piece of legislation and would not be implemented at the state level.

Q: What should we tell voters concerned about this attack on Andy Biggs?

A: Andy Biggs will never raise taxes on Arizonans, period. His plan is to gradually eliminate the state income tax and offset it with new revenue through eliminating waste and utilizing our state's resources. Nobody has cut more taxes as an Arizona legislator than Andy Biggs and he'll continue to lower taxes as your next Governor.
